

Justine Nolt

is an art experimenter with a passion for bright colors and soft shapes. Her largest ongoing project features colorful yarn affixed to custom “canvases,” made with unique wood scraps and metalworking, fabricated by her dad.

Each piece displays its own rhythm, sometimes featuring broken pottery, embroidery thread, or tassels.

More recently, she has picked up the crochet hook to make a family of adorable crocheted worms. When her fingers aren't covered in glue and yarn fuzzies, Justine enjoys making collages, pottery, and the occasional abstract painting.

During the day, she is an AmeriCorps service member making art with the clients and community of Imagine Art.

Justine's artwork and the stories behind it can be found on instagram:

@artsofficialflavor

or on her website:

https://artsofficialflavor.com!

photography by david carrales